The anecdotes of the great marshal's eccentricities-his habita of wandering about the camp in disguise, his whim of giving the signal for assault by crowing like a cock, his astonishing endurance of heat and cold. his savage disregard of personal comfort and neatness, are beyond calculation; but perhaps the most characteristic of all is his appearance in 1766 at the Austrian Court, then one of the most brilliant in Europe. On being shown to the room prepared for him, (a splendid apartment filled with eastly mirrors and rich furniture,) this modern Diogenes said simply Turn out all that rubbish, and shake

Her teeth twin rows of pearls. Like those that blush in June, When sky and earth, and sea, and sir, To beauty all attune:

Her form a sculptor's model rare More giorious than her face, The very soul of grace.

Her voice in tone as softly clear As song-bird's liquid note, When waves of richest melody On summer rephyrs float.

At time that she was wed, The country round knew none as fair, Or so my grandpa zaid.

But now she's witherest, bent and olds. Her voice is cracked and shrill; Her trembling hands almost refuse The mandates of her will; Her brow is seamed by furrows deep. Her eyes are dimmed and blear,

There hangs a crystal tear. For she has seen, like Autuma leaves Her dead around her fall, And followed to the church varil near Full many a somber pall: And back again to earth she has Her dearest treasures given-
